When submitting a manuscript to Science, you agree that:

- Authorship

All authors have agreed to be so listed and have seen and approved the manuscript, its content, and its submission to Science. We will verify this requirement with all co-authors upon submission. Non-compliance may lead to rejection. Any further change in authorship must be approved in writing by all authors. Before acceptance, each author will be required to indicate their role in the research and verify that they meet our criteria for authorship, and the senior author from each lab must assert that they have seen and checked the reported raw data. Click here for more information.

- Prior publication

None of the material being represented as original in the manuscript has been published or is under consideration for publication elsewhere.

- Informed consent

Informed consent has been obtained for studies on humans after the nature and possible consequences of the studies were explained.

- Animal care and use

Care of experimental animals was in accordance with institutional guidelines.

- Related papers

Copies of papers submitted to other journals by any author that relate to the paper submitted to Science will be included with the submission.

- License

Authors retain copyright but must agree to grant Science an exclusive license to publish the paper in print and online. Any author whose institution has a separate publication license must have received a waiver from that license.

- Materials sharing

After publication, all reasonable requests for materials must be fulfilled. Before acceptance, Science must be informed of any restrictions on sharing of materials [Material Transfer Agreements (MTA), for example]. Unreasonable restrictions may preclude publication. MTA's, patent applications or patents that apply to reagents, materials, methods or data in the paper must be included in the materials and data sharing section in the acknowledgements.

Conflicts of Interest (COI)

To meet its responsibility to readers and to the public to provide clear and unbiased scientific information, ScienceDirect.com requires that all original research, review and commentary articles should be accompanied by clear disclosures from all authors of their affiliations, funding sources, and financial holdings that might raise questions about possible sources of bias.

Therefore, during the process of returning a revised manuscript, before manuscript acceptance, authors will be asked to fill out a statement of real or perceived conflicts of interest. The COI form will be accessible to the authors through this interface.

Additional information on our policy is available here.
